

The two-periodic Aztec diamond

Kurt Johansson

KTH, Sweden

Determinantal point processes form an interesting class of random processes. I will say a few general things about determinantal point processes and then as an example discuss some recent work on a dimer or random tiling model called the two-periodic Aztec diamond.

This is joint work with Sunil Chhita.